WASHINGTON, June 6 .- President Hoover today denied the senate foreign relations committee access to secret papers relating to the London naval treaty and cited precedents by President Washington and President Harding in support of his refusal. Light, Fluffy Biscuits

BY JESSIE MARIE DEBOTH.

The foresighted housewife who likes to bake, finds it a great convenience to prepare dry materials in quantity for biscuit, shortcakes, etc. In the south, prepared flour is used by most cooks, but in other sections women seem to do their own mixing. For quick breads, the proportion of two level teaspoons of baking powder with half a teaspoon of salt, to two cups of sifted flour is generally used, though some prefer to scant the baking powder a bit. It is easy to sift four times this quantity, better do it twice for thorough mixing, and have it on

-to troubles caused by harsh, non-absorbent toilet tissue

THERE is no form of human illness quite so humiliating as rectal trouble.

Yet in millions of homes women are exposing themselves and their families daily to ailments of this nature.

For much of the toilet tissue sold to housewives today is utterly unfit for bathroom use. It may be glazed, chemically impure, or harsh-surfaced — covered with tiny slivers.

Today more and more house-wives are realizing the health ortance of toilet tissue. And millions of women are insisting upon the tissues that physicians and hospitals have thoroughly approved - Scot-Tissue, Sani-Tissue and Waldorf.

These three health-protecting tissues are unusually soft and cloth-like. So absorbent they sink in water almost instantly.

The sheets tear easily and squarely at the perforations. And the rolls are closely wrap-ped to fit the built-in fixtures.

It doesn't pay to be care-less in this bathroom es-sential. Be sure of safety. Always ask for ScotTissue, Sani-Tissue or Waldorf.

Macadam Will Not Be Used on Important Highway, Engineers Decide.

Concrete and not macadam, as had been planned, will be used in the construction of the highway between Gainesville and Baldwin, it was revealed Friday by state highway engineers.

Advertisements for bids for a portion of the project, 10.6 miles in length between Lula and Baldwin, to be submitted along with others June 26, were distributed by the department Friday.

The Gainesville-Baldwin road is considered one of the most important projects to be given inmediate consideration by the board. Its completion the latter part of the summer will give Atlanta its first all-paved road to Washington and New York. The paved route will go by Asheville. North Carolina.

First plans called for a five-inch base with a macadam top. Federal authorities insisted on a six-inch base, which will increase the costs of the project by about $60,000, it was said. Projects on which advertisements were sent out by the highway board Friday, bids to be submitted June 26, are:

Habersham-Hall counties, paving 10.6 miles of the Gainesville-Baldwin road between Lula and Baldwin.

Clarke-Oconec counties, construction of bridge over Barber's creek on the Athens-Watkinsville road.

Grady county, grading 7.6 miles of the Thomas-Grady county line to the Florida state line, and the construction of one bridge.

Soften the cream just enough to blend the berries with it, adding more sugar, if desired, then return quickly to the chilling unit and freeze. If the fruit is very juicy, a teaspoonful of gelatine may be dissolved and mixed with it for a smoother consistency. Ripe peaches and plums can be done later in the same way, with great success. To avoid police interference with their communications, Bengal congress members are said to have established their own "underground" postal and messenger system. The local messengers in turn deliver reports of the progress of civil disobedience in the rural districts.

LOS ANGELES, June 6.—(P)—An alternate writ of prohibition, ordering a temporary stay of the contempt of court proceedings against the Los Angeles Evening Record, was issued by the California supreme court today.

Superior Judge Frank C. Collie, before whom the contempt hearing was to have been held next Monday, was ordered to appear before the court in San Francisco on July 8 to show cause why he should not recognize an affidavit alleging prejudice filed against him by William Gibbs McAdoo, chief counsel for the newspaper.

Adoo, chief counsel for the newspaper.

The order automatically postponed hearing of the case until after July 8. Judge Collier filed an answer denying the prejudice allegation.

The publisher and editors of The Record are accused of 13 counts of contempt, based upon a series of cartoons and articles criticising the county grand jury and the district attorney in connection with their investigation of the Julian Petroleum Corporation stock over-issue fraud.

New Locks Placed On Senators' Doors

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(P)—New locks were installed in the senate office building today as the result of a number of nocturnal ransackings of senators' offices.

Senator McKellar complained recently that his office had been looted, important papers being scattered by prowlers. Then Senators Smoot and Brock protested similarly and were joined shortly by Senator Johnson, who said his "private, personal correspondence," had been ransacked.

There are in all 320 bright new locks, costing about $1,080.

Many Mills Operating Under New System, Textile Institute Head Says.

Ninety-eight per cent of the "narrow sheetings" textile mills in the United States are operating under the "55-50" maximum hours for labor and machinery. George A. Sloan, president of the Cotton Textile Institute of New York city, told 40 leading cotton mill men of Georgia and South Carolina at an informal meeting here Friday.

Sixty-eight per cent of the 83 "narrow sheetings" mills in Georgia, Alabama and North and South Carolina are included in the textile list operating under the new system, Mr. Sloan said.

"This recommendation looking to greater regularity in employment," Mr. Sloan said, "has gained national recognition as the most constructive movement that has come within the cotton industry during the past decade.

Peachtree Residents Enjoin Golf Course Alcohol Poisoning

Construction of a Tom Thumb golf course at Peachtree road and Peachtree way and operation of an apartment-hotel on the same property were enjoined Friday by Judge John D. Humphries, of Fulton superior court, after a hearing on a petition filed by Mrs. Mary Knight Dobbins and William F. Buchanan, owners of property in Peachtree Heights.

The plaintiffs alleged that restrictions in the deed to the property on which the apartment-hotel was being operated and on which it was proposed to build the miniature golf course prohibited the erection of business houses.

The plaintiffs charged that Alfred S. Floyd and M. K. Youngblood planned construction of the golf course on property owned by H. Wilensky, and that Wilensky was operating the apartment-hotel. Judge Humphries granted restraining orders to continue in force until trial of the case. The plaintiffs are represented by Bryan & Middlebrooks and Hendrix & Buchanan. Wilensky is represented by Howell, Heyman and Bolding and Floyd and Youngblood are represented by Hollingsworth & Marshall.

The plaintiffs charged that Alfred Senator Sheppard, of Texas, arguing against Tydings' amendment, asserted it would destroy the present formulae used by the government in denaturing alcohol.

After the vote, Tydings said he would re-submit his amendment "when some mensure for the conservation of wood or hogs or something else that usually get unanimous approval here, is before the senate."

Sheppard retorted, "the American people voted for the conservation of human life in the highest degree when they adopted the 18th amendment."

Smallest in Years

Close surveillance of fire hazards of Atlanta by a corps of special inspectors Friday was given credit for the fact that the city's fire loss in May was less than for any month in many years. Only six fires of importance occurred from May 2 through June 5. The most expensive fire of the month was damage of $15,556 to the stock of the Empire Clothing Company, 127 Whitehall street, on May 7. Fifty to 60 bales of cotton were destroyed by fire at the Candler warehouse on May 13, while there was considerable water damage to material in the C. L. C. Thomas warehouse on May 4.

Blaze from a short-circuited stage lamp caused some damage to the Georgia theater on May 6.

It was a far different May from that of 1917, when a large section of the city was destroyed in a fire that raged 18 hours.

In Theft of Motors

Before the clerk of court had even had an opportunity of entering the indictments on the minutes. George Tumlin and Marion Stewart Friday afternoon pleaded guilty before Judge Virlyn B. Moore, of Fulton superior court, on charges of larceny of auto-mobiles. Each defendant was given one to two years on the chair agennootes. Each defendant was given one to two years on the chain gang. Both admitted having been in court before. Tumlin was charged with stealing a car from W. C. Anglin, 140 Edgewood, and Stewart was charged with stealing a coupe from J. W. Crane, of Avondale.

THE OLD REBELYELLERS.

The fortieth reunion of the Confederate Veterans has just ended at Biloxi, the last home of their war president and commander-in-chief, Jefferson Davis. Although the ranks of the survivors are pathetically thin now the zeal and Joy with which they enter into these annual re-encampments are thrilling to their younger generations.

Whatever questions men may have had while the great interstates war was in the making and in its progress as to the motivations of the Confederates who threw themselves into the fateful of any citizen, whether bishop or struggle, these reunions of the gray heroes 65 years after demonstrate how spiritually they were convinced of the moral rectitude of their conduct in that war.

Sixteen male patients in a hospital for nervous and mental diseases were placed on a special diet which yielded approximately 4,000 calories a day. On this diet they made an average weekly gain, per patient, of three nounds in weight. Lots of holy frights not in hospi-

The interesting position is taken by Gerard Fowke, 75-year-old archaeologist of Madison, Ind., that any future opening of the remaining Indian mounds which are to be found in various section of the country would be little less than vandalism. Any further explorations, he holds, can result only in the discovery of more of the same kind of relics which are now plentiful.

This last point is important. If a holy fright has the makings of a lovely lady in her, insulin is all the more likely to bring out her better traits. I do not mean that this is the criterion for selecting cases suitable for the insulin treatment, though I do think a holy fright who is a little bit of all right in the temperament is pretty certain to acquire the saving 12 pounds of flesh in this way, that is, if she can find a doctor who knows his insulin.

Letters From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter

BY ROBERT QUILLEN

My dear Louise: I should have said "dearest," for this is going to und like a mid-Victorian irate father bawling out his erring daughter, d a little more affection at the beginning might soften the blow and make you understand that it isn't as bad as it

Now that's all cleared up, here are the harsh words straight from the shoulder, You are treasurer of two organizations— some kid society in your church and some club

These organizations are hard-up and dead on their feet, apparently, for their combined cash assets never have exceeded five dollars during your term of office.

The money has been parked in your bedroom—was parked there, I mean—month after month, one fund in a jewel box and the other in ROBERT QUILLEN.

It was small change, convenient and easy to spend.

So you spent it. Occasionally you would need a dime or a quarter then I wasn't within reach, and doubtless you reasoned—quite logically—that one quarter was worth just as much as another and you could get money from me to replace the two funds when they were exhausted.

That is precisely what happened. You spent all the money, and when the two organizations had need of it you came to me for a check.

Well, that's that.

Now another thing I'm boss around here, which means that the laws governing you are

One of these laws, as you know, prohibits parties on school nights Yet you were filled with enthusiasm when some of your crowd began to arrange for a moonlight picnic in Wood's pasture Wednesday night, and joined in their planning—hoping and expecting to spring the little surprise on me at the last moment when I couldn't say "no" for fear of breaking your heart.

It was good strategy if it did fail. Now consider the two matters.

You spent money entrusted to you by others, and you broke a law-in spirit at least—thinking you could soft-soap the judge and make

In spirit at least—thinking you could soft-soap the judge and make him think you above the law.

People who break laws get into trouble, even if they are charming, important people the judge hates to punish.

The law must be upheld, no matter who is broken in the process, and you must learn that law deserves respect for its own sake.

Many "nice" people who thought they could break laws with impunity because of their social prominence are now in Jail.

And many are in fall because they used money entrusted to them without thought of stealing, of course, without feeling of guilt, and fully expecting to pay it back.

That is embezziement—in plain words plain stealing.

Is it right to embezzie five dollars if it is wrong to embezzie five

Take no chances, honey. Money entrusted to you is sacred, sacred, sacred. It is wrapped in your honor. Guard it; keep it separate and apart; never for a moment think of as something you are free to use. How many essentially decent people would be respected still if they had learned to do that!

That's all. I'm not really scolding—just telling you,

Bach Count Gone Into.

Judge Moore went into each of the four counts in the indictment individually and collectively and said that if the jury believed the statements of the state winesses beyond a reasontable doubt it was its duty to find Saunders guilty. He gave the usual court instructions concerning reasonable doubt.

"You must believe the defendant guilty beyond every reasonable by pothesis before returning a verdict of guilty," Judge Moore said. "The by burden of proof rests upon the state."

"You're mighty right, that is my policy. It is the policy of the grand jury and I back it as far as I can. Director Steuart Faces Suit Miss Ruth Alpert, 'Toytown' NEW STEP IS TAKE In Atlanta Census Squabble Producer, To Arrive Today cial.)—Director of the Census William M. Steuart today appeared to be threatened with a federal injunction suit either way he turns finally in deciding on the question of Atlanta's 1930 population.

Following the order issued by Mr. Steuart yesterday directing the census supervisor at Atlanta to release enumeration figures on the basis of the new Greater Atlanta charter, Representative Maurice H. Thatcher, republican, of Louisville, Ky, let it be known that he intends to confer with members of congress from the several southern cities which are protesting the Greater Atlanta figures, with a view of bringing such injunction proceedings if their protests are not heeded. At the same time it was learned here that civic organizations and city officials of Atlanta are planning to initiate similar proceedings in the event the census bureau should rule ultimately that the city's old boundaries must be used in the permanent record of the current national enumeration.

permanent record of the current national enumeration.

Steuart in Dilemma.

Thus the dilemma which confronts Director Steuart, who has been much harassed ever since the question was first presented to him. It is taken to explain the cautious and somewhat uncertain manner in which he had handled the controversy recently, leading him to make satisfactory commitments to Atlanta representatives one day, only to be followed by an enigmatic expression the next, culminating finally in his referring the whole problem to the solicitor of the department of commerce for an opinion.

As a second proposition, the con-ment of commerce for an opinion.

As a second proposition, the conference which the Louisville congressman has in mind may hit upon a decision to thrash the question out in the house and senate by putting forward a bill on the subject. The proposed measure, discussed informally by Representative Thatcher and some of his associates today, would seek to outline a definite policy for the guidance of the census bureau in cases of the kind.

To Fight Legislation.

Representative Robert Ramspeck, of the fifth Georgia district, who has kept in constant touch with the situation, announced that he would vigorously oppose any such legislation should it be offered. Anticipating that a spirited fight would develop to the proportions threatened by Mr. Ramspeck, the Thatcher group, however, is expected to resort to legal action instead.

Meantime Director Steuart today

Meantime Director Steuart today officially made public here the same set of figures released in Atlanta yesterday, showing the city to have a population of 353,722 on a basis of its new cheers. new charter. It immediately brought forth another protest from Representative Daniel E. Garrett, of Houston, whose population of approximately 200,000 would surpass that of Atlanta if the latter's 1920 boundaries were used.

Contrary to the impression which Representative Ramspeck and others gained from the census director's order of yesterday, Mr. Steuart told the Texas member, the latter was quoted as saying afterwards that is releasing the Greater Atlanta figures he was merely carrying out a promise made to President Horace Russell and Executive Vice President B. S. Barker, of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, when they headed a delegation calling on him to discuss the question some weeks back.

Among the six men yet to be arrested on the blanket complaint containing many charges, including murder, is G. W. Skinner, husband of the farm woman the negro was accused of assaulting. Skinner has admitted he stabbed the negro wile Argo was dying, several hours after he had been shot.

Harralson said that this year the schools taught 5,000 more students than last year with $125,000 less in money. He said that Key was on the board of education for 12 years, and if he is elected mayor he will help the board of education and take the schools out of politics. He declared: "If the city had appropriated sufficient money for the schools you would not have heard from the board of education, and Atlanta would not have received unfavorable publicity about the danger of the schools closing." He charged that the board of education has been made a political football.

COTTON-STOCKS-BONDS-GRAIN-LIVE STOCK

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—(P)—The Philadelphia Inquirer today quotes Henry Ford as saying that American business is on the uptrend and that the trend upward is setting a faster pace than did the slump a few months ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford came to Philadelphia yesterday from Washington, where they had been overnight guests of President and Mrs. Hoover. They were guests at a dinner given by E. T. Stotesbury at his mansion, "Whitemarsh Hall," last night and spent the night at the home of Cyrus H. K. Curtis, Philadelphia publisher.

"You see," the Inquirer quotes the automobile manufacturer, "a lot of these fellows were fooling around with the stock market and they got caught—badly caught. They had to go to work again. Now they've been at work and they're beginning to enjoy it. That is always the reason for good business. In itself, it means there are more people honestly engaged in working hard and productively than there are idling, and it also means they are enjoying it."

Mr. Ford affirmed the announcement that the Ford Motor Company plans the establishment of a factory in China and said he intended to go to Germany shortly to make a preliminary study leading to the establishment of a plant there.

"We also are going to set up a plant in South America," Mr. Ford was quoted as having said. "I'm an internationalist in industry, and I believe a world economic scheme that does not embrace the idea of prosperity for all is unsound. That is the idea we have had in mind in establishing these plants all over the world. In the south of Ireland our plant is of tremendous importance to the people of the whole southern section of the free state."

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN,

CHICAGO, June 6.-(49)-Moisfrom Canada, gave wheat values a neral upward trend today. Toward the last also, the wheat market rethe last also, the wheat market received further impulse to advance from cables telling of excessive rains in Europe. There were crop damage reports, too, from north Africa, including assertions that for central and southern districts of Tunis the yield of hard wheat this season would be reduced nearly to zero.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, 1-8c to 3-4c higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1-8c to 1c up, oats at 1-8c decline to an equal gain, and provisions varying from 2c setback to a rise of 20c.

At first wheat values sagged on selling that appeared to come largely from foreigners. However, with almost complete absence of rain reported in Canada and in domestic spring wheat states, the market rallied quickly, and throughout the remainder of the day had an upward slant. Meanwhile, dispatches from Alberta attracted notice, as a large area there was reported as promising at best but half a crop with heavy rains in the next week, whereas without such rains the crop is regarded as almost a failure.

half a crop with heavy rains in the next week, whereas without such rains the crop is regarded as almost a failure.

Although weather and crop conditions in the North American spring wheat belt received the lion's share of wheat traders' attention today, uneasiness was also shown as to harvest developments in domestic winter wheat sections southwest. Talk was current that as the harvesting operations make progress northward there is likely to be considerable disappointment as to yields. Some Oklahoma reports, though, were at hand indicating a crop of 40,000,000 to 45,000,000 bushels for that state, and it was added the wheat would be of the best quality in several years. Late indications today were that North American export demand was somewhat improved.

Increased offerings of corn from rural soucces led to lower prices in the corn market. Beneficial rains over part of the corn belt were reported. Oats averaged lower with corn.

Provisions advanced on account of Provisions advanced on account of buying of December lard and because of good cash demand for meats.

BY DONALD C. BOLLES,

Associated Press Financial Writer, NEW YORK, June 6.—(P)—Two Liberty bond issues went into new high ground for the year on today's trading in the listed bond market. Their rise was about the only feature of the day in which the trading was brisk only at the start and close.

Liberty 4 1-4s, of both the first and fourth issues, erased the former 1930 high mark for the year, and the continuance of the good demand for United States governments enhanced the firm trend but suffered from dullness most of the day, and the activity of the market as a whole was not what might be expected in view of the credit situation. Picks of legal issues brought increased trading in some railroad bonds, but price enhancement was small. Stock privilege issues were jumpy, with the trend downward.

New reports concerning the long-awaited German annuity issue, the first piece of financing under the Young plan, caused no commotion in the foreign bond section. Trading was in a wide list of issues, with most bonds closing higher.

The state department at Washing-ton announced formally that it had no objection to the American flotation of German bonds, but price enhancement was small. Stock privilege issues were jumpy, with the trend downward.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(P)—Final valuations were announced to day by the interstate commerce commission on the property of the several railroad units comprising the Gult Coast Line in Louisiana and Texas.

As of June, 1914, the commission held, the New Orleans, Texas & Mexico system was worth $7,655,000; the St. Louis, Brownsville & Mexico was worth $15,500,000 as of June, 1919; while the Beaumont Sour Lake & Western as of June, 1919, was valued at $2,287,000. Several small subsidiaries of the Gulf Coast systems were likewise valued in the same commission report.

The figures allowed in the case of principal units of the Gulf Coast system were about half those sought by the railroads.

Stock Letters.

NEW YORK, June 6.—The quality of support in Friday's market was not so impressive as in recent sessions but was, nevertheless, sufficient to hold the decline within orderly limits. Considerable disappointment was evidenced over the unexpectedly large increase in brokers' loans announced after yesterday's close, but better informed quarters attributed a large part of the increase is somewhat congested condition in the bond starket rather than to any important movement of stocks from strong to weak hands. The day's trade news was almost wholly adverse, though not unexpectedly so, it has been here pointed out repeatedly that no improvement in the business situation is likely to make itself evidenced until the fail, and that seasonal recessions in a number of lines' might be witnessed in the interim. FENNER & BEANE,

LIVINGSTON & CO.

NEW YORK, June 6.—After almost a week of abnormal duliness, prices Friday afternoon turned weak with an active volume of trading. There was nothing in the news of the day to which this might be attributed. The increase in brokers' loans can hardly be held responsible as it was passed over as a matter of course in the moraning's trading. The heaviest selling of the market coincided with aggressive attacks on some of the musement issues. Columbia Graphophone, the principal object of this selling, suffered a final loss of 4 points. As is usually the case there was no reliable information as to the cause of the movement. Columbia Graphophone has always been one of the most obscure of all the so-called mystery stocks. However, reports were in circulation that negotiations for a merger with Radio were finally off.

NEW YORK, June 6.—We see nothing in the general situation to warrant any change

There has been no evidence whatever during the last two days of general liquidation. We have seen a large amount of

NEW YORK, June 6.—The price of cotton made a new low level for this week during Friday's session of trading. Covering and a small amount of ontside buying caused a rally towards the market's close.

Influences at work continue the same as reported repeatedly for some days past, that is, the weather is favorable for crop progress and demand for mill output remains unsatisfactory. Until the situation changes importantly in either or both of these respects the best that cotton is likely to register on the upside is temporary rai-

NEW YORK, June 5.—After an early builge cotton turned easy again and sold down nearly $1.50 a bale, with all new crop positions in New Orleans going close to former lows and some of the new crops in New York selling below former lows.

Rains in eastern belt, bearish construction placed on the organization of a stabilizing corporation for cotton and weakness in silver were the caugée of the decline.

Traders in New Orlgans were inclined to place a buillah construction on the cotton stabilizing corporation but New York traders took the opposite view and sold the market down. The selling movement was helped along by claims of Moscow that Russian acreage planted to cotton is 50 per cent larger than last year.

Rains were general over belt with exception of the extreme northwest, southwest and Carolina coast.

The new October contract sold off to 14.12 or 27 points net lower, but rallied a few points on covering in the late trading, closing at 14.20. General market closed steady at net declines of 12 to 20 points.

The opening was steady 1 point up to 5 points lower. There was some buying on relatively steady cables, but the market soon turned easier. Offerings were not particularly active or aggressive. Buying was restricted by a belief that the crop was now making favorable progress in the south and prices worked gradually lower. A private report of a reduction of 1.7 per cent in acreage and placing the condition at 69.1 per cent, against 68.9 last year, may have influenced the decilne. It extended to 15.61 for July and 14.22 for the new December contract during the early afternoon when active months showed net losses of 20 to 27 points. The report was presented by Representative Beedy, republican, Maine, chairman of the committee, and was adopted unanimously. Representative Ruth Bryan Owen was absent, being in Florida, where she recently was renominated by a vote of more than four to one for re-election against a wet.

The election of Mrs. Owen in 1928 was contested by William C. Lawson, republican, who charged she had failed to qualify under the citizenship requirements of the constitution. T. M. Healy, Birmingham, field secretary of the board, said the steel and iron industries believed their 1930 business would equal last year's and that the cement, crushed stone, sand, gravel and slag industries anticipated increases of 5 and 10 per cent.

Washington Approves Reparation Flotation

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(P)—
Without awating final adjustment of the task of floating the first Young plan reparation loan of $300,000,000 in nine of the world's financial centers, the state department announced today it had no objection to the issuance in the United States of a part of the loan.

Still involved in delays by various technicalities confronting the committee charged with evolving the final agreement between the bankers and the German government, the flotation of the loan is not expected for another week.

The portion of the loan to be floated in New York by a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan and Company has been estimated at $84,500,000 in word from Paris. One-third of the total issue will be used as a loan to Germany and the remainder will be employed in the commercialization of German reparation bonds.

The issue price is expected to be pl or 92 but Secretary Stimson and Undersecretary Cotton, who jointly announced the department's decision, said they had no definite information on the details of the loan so far as the New York market was concerned.

The syndicate asked the department whether it would disapprove the issue. The department, ever since it established its foreign loan policy after the World War, has followed the practice of not indicating its definite approval of an issue but merely indicates whether it has objections to the floation. dicates whether it has objections to Senator Caraway returned to his native county here today to address a southeast Missouri democratic rally.

For the last times today "Ingagi," the record of a big game hunt packed with thrills, and the Fanchon and Marco "Black and Gold" idea, are being shown at the Fox theater. The motion picture is one of the most interesting picture chronicles of a big game hunt that has ever been shown. Some of the features are the charge of a ferocious lion into a party of the hunters, the capture of a huge python, the charge of a rhinoceros into the camera and the upsetting of the cameraman by a lion, the same lion having seriously wounded one of the hunters and a native just before.

Arnold Graver, the man in gold, on the "Black and Gold" presentation, has been creating lots of talk this week by his ability to stand perfectly immobile for a period of 20 minutes. When he does move, the audience spontaneously applauds, for the remarkable feat is at once realized. Graver is also a dancer of grace and ease.

Attests Seeing Sea 'Sarpint'

BOSTON, June 6.—(P)—It was this way matey, and you have the word of Captain Cecil Moulton and his crew of 23 for it. The schooner Pollyanna, out of Gloucester, was some 70 miles southeast by south of Highland light on the afternoon of May 22 when one of the biggest sea serpents ever reported was sighted and drew up alongside in plain view of all hands.

Captain Moulton docked the Pollyanna at the fish pier today to unload a fare of balibut and duly reported the sea monster, and Fredrick F. Dimmick, secretary of the Boston fish bureau, included the matter in his daily report, so it is all on record.

The sea serpent was seen at the stern of the Pollyanna but its speed and presently it drew alongside, Captain Moulton and his crew insist. Its head resembled that of a horse, they say, and its body—the 25-odd feet of it that was above the surface, was said to have the girth of an oil barrangth and the property of the commander-in-chief of the barton for the property of the captains chosen for promotion to rear admiral are Walter Rockwell Gherardi, of the navy general board: After unloading his tale and his halibut, Captain Moulton left for Gloucester with 20,000 pounds of cod.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(P)—Asserting he intended no discourtesy either to the senate or its lobby committee by walking out of the committee session Thursday, morning, Bishop James Cannon, Jr., in a statement tonight questioned whether he could be adjudged in contempt for his action in view of the absence of a quorum.

Only Senators Walsh, democrat, Montana, and Blaine, republican, Wisconsin, were present throughout the time the bishop was on the stand. Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, arrived in the committee room a few minutes after Cannon had left telling the committeemen they could subpoena him if they wanted him further.

In the latest statement the southern Methodist churchman reviewed the circumstances leading up to his appearance before the committee, and the events succeeding his taking the stand, asserting he considered "not only unfair, but illegal" the questioning on his political activities which continued after his refusal to testify on them, and after Chairman Walsh had announced that in the absence of a quorum, no ruling could be made and "we will be obliged to discontinue that course of questioning."

"This course of the committee I considered to be not only unfair, but illegal, and I decided that I would not continue as a voluntary witness until the committee secured a quorum, summoned me as a witness and ruled formally upon my objections to investigating my political activities in the anti-Smith campaign. As I had never been summoned and as a quorum of the committee had not be in present at either session, I was honestly of the opinion that I could withdraw upon my own motion. . . . "If two members of the commit-members of the committee present, is legally a part of the record."

Bishop Cannon concluded his statement with a further reference to the $48,300 spent in the Virginia state anti-Smith campaign, on which he refused to testify, asserting that "a small vindictive group of Virginia poiticians, for political reasons for use in Tuture campaigns are determined, if possible, to get the names of the Virginia anti-Smith workers and the amounts paid them for their work in that campaign, which information it is not my purpose to give them."

In opening his statement the bishop recalled how he wrote Chairman Caraway, of the committee, he would be glad to appear if the lobby committee wishes any information concerning the board of temperance and social service of his church, and how when "the effort was made to investigate my activities as a leader of the anti-Smith democrats, I filed with the committee a statement questioning the jurisdiction of the committee on that point... and Senator Walsh stated that the committee would take my statement under advisement.

"I supposed that it would be considered by a guorum of the committee on sidered by a guorum of the committee on sidered by a guorum of the committee."

any order in the premises. If you persist in refusing to answer the questions which the committee desires to propound to you along that line, we will be obliged to discontinue that course of inquiry. Nevertheless, after admitting that a quorum of the committee had not passed upon my objections, Senator Walsh warned me that my refusal might become a 'penal offense.'

"I should probably have insisted then upon the inability of the committee to ask further questions legally without a 'quorum but I decided to remain. I was amazed, however, thnt, despite Senator Walsh's distinct statement that it would be necessary 'to discontinue that course of inquiry, question after question was asked me concerning my personal and political activities in order to get some matters in the record, regardless of the failure of the committee to rule upon my objections and the declaration of Senator Walsh quoted above."

It was about a week later, at 6 o'clock in the afternoon, that Dan walked into her kitchen. The sun had set; there was a clear, soft twilight under the shabby autumn trees.

In the roomy old kitchen, at the end of the day, he found all the familiar scents and sounds of home. The early evening was chilly, and the big store was fired; penches were cooking; baking was under way. Old Mrs. Pringle was in a rocker, with Margaret in her lap; the young Swedish girl was at the sink. Tomny was studying at the table.

"I command vat you set dis Munchkin boy free!" Margaret shoutd, looking up from her book.
"She always says that when you get to that place, doesn't she, gramny?" Tomny asked.

Dan knocked: everyone turned. And in the silence Cassy came out of the big pantry and looked inquiringly at the visitor.

His girl, his slender, blue-approned girl with the dark rich cloud of hair above her earnest, thin, brown face, and blue, blue eyes. Dan's throat thickened, and he could not speak.

"It's dad, mom," Tommy presently stated. He got down from the table and went to her side, and she dropped her hand and clasped his own firm little hand, without moving her eyes from the doorway.

"Could I speak to you a minute?" Dan asked, clearing his throat.

"Why, of course." Cassy loosed her head slightly toward the yard, behind Dan. "We can talk out here, she said.

They stood on the well-remembered, deep old porch. Cassy shut the kitchen door behind her and rested in a half sitting position against a long table that was littered with odds and ends of small farm equipment.

"What is it?" she asked in a quiet yoice, breathing fast.

WASHINGTON, Ga., June 6.— The quaint and historic town of Washington-Wilkes-the first town in America to bear the honored name of the father of his country" was in estive dress Friday in compliment to General Charles P. Summerall, United States army chief of staff, and other distinguished guests who gathered at War Hill, near here, to do further honor to the memory of Colonels Elijah Clarke. Andrew Pickens and John Dooley, heroes of the Battle of Kettle Creek, referred to by some historians as the "Gettysburg of the Revolution"

General Summerall in his dedica-tory address called the monument an "emblem of the stability of this na-tion and of the ideals preserved by the women of this nation through the Daughters of the American Revolu-tion"

"Tour hundred patriots dispersed 700 British and Tories here," he said. "The numbers engaged were most respectable judged by revolutionary standards and the Battle of Kettle Creek was an important feat of arms. "Both sides felt that the sovereignty of the southern states was at stake. "The struggle was decided only after the most stubborn bravery had been exhibited on both sides. In its largest sense Kettle Creek is a symbol. It belongs with Lexington and Kings Mountain."

"Some have erroneously said we could have obtained freedom bloodlessly by waiting and talking. The fallacy is obvious. This great republic with a century and a half of service to mankind is sufficient answer to such ignoble sentiments. Our churches and monuments stand as a record of our civilization.

General Summerall prefaced his address with a tribute to Senators. Harris and George, and Congressman Brand, saying that when they requested that he make the dedicatory address his response was spontaneous because of their outstanding services to the state of Georgia and to the whole country.

Gen. McCoy Speaks.

Ma'or General McCoy had been scheduled to make an address on the subject of national prepareduess, but he said the field of the duties of the American citizen had been adequately covered in the address by Mrs. Van Landingham.

He devoted a large part of his allotted time to an exposition of the significance of the battle of Kettle if Creek as a pivotal one in the war of American independence, and to an account of the heroic exploits of Columels Andrew Pickens, Elliah Clarke and John Dooly.

Of that trio General McCoy said:

"They leave behind them not only in Georgia but in the nation as well. For that reason I am particularly glad not only to show my interest now but to continue it in the protection of the historic spot which stands for the cherished sentiments of your community."

"Buck" Anderson, Farmer and Coleman Make Grade at Chicago.

CHICAGO, June 6.—Georgia Teeh gave promise of leading in point scoring in one event—the broad jumpand the University of Georgia had entries remaining in three events as the qualifying tests in the national collegiate track and field championships ended at the University of Chicago tonight. The final events will be held tomorrow.

Ed Hamm, Georgia Tech's strongest threat in the broad jump, was one of the school's two qualifiers in the event, taking second place behind Gordon, of Iowa, in the trials today. His teammate, Doug Graydon, tied with Dave Hamilton, of Colorado University, for third place among the 12 qualifiers.

Hamm, whose 1928 record of 25 feet 11 1-8 inches still stands as the collegiate mark, was unable to come close to this figure in his three attempts today. His best jump was 24 feet 3-4 inches, well back of the figure of 25 feet with which the Iowan led the field.

Playing one-night stands here and there may look like a Cook tour to the outsider—and in a way it is to W. L., who lets his father play the role of Cook and merely does the fighting. But there is quite an element of uncertainty in his professional progress.

And when he left Atlanta yesterday at noon at the wheel of his car with Pa doing the back seat driving, he did not know for sure exactly what was just ahead for him.

RAPID CHANGES IN OUTLOOK.

A crowd of 75,000 racing followers, the largest since Zev beat Papyrus at Belmont Park, in 1923, may pack the spacious stands and grounds for a race that promises to send purses The Striblings read in the morning paper before they left Birmingham that Von Porat after running out on the match and getting himself suspended for six months by the Illinois commission had agreed to go on with the fight.

When they climbed out of one of the Davis air liners an hour and 15 minutes later, a long distance call was awaiting Pa from the Chicago promoter.

The promoter wanted to move the date from June 16 to June 18 and have W. L. come up for a few days' public training. He wanted W. L. to be in Chicago Monday to be exact.

The proposed revision in plans spoils what was to have been a pleasure trip for the Striblings to New York to see the Schmeling-Sharkey fight. They were going to drive up and see the show, then motor over to Chicago, sending son on ahead by train to help in the

WINE WAS TOUGH.

Stribling said he had his usual tough time with Frankie Wine Birmingham. He has never knocked the tough customer out.

"If I had been standing three inches closer to him in the fourth round," Stribling said, "I would have done it. And I was too far away in the sixth to put him to sleep. After I clipped him on the chin in the sixth he dug in and I couldn't get to him any more."

Stribling has fought Wine three times and won three times. "I guess he belongs to me now," Stribling commented, "like

And Pa's comment was: "I never went throug such mental suffering as over there. With a fight in Chicago and one in England right on ahead, I was afraid W. L. would break a hand, especially since he broke his left one time on this Wine's head."

This is no plea for sympathy for the Striblings. I mean it is just a little peep into their lives. Their reactions to the pro-fession are exactly what one would expect from good south Georgia folks.

Prohibition Attacked By Charley Paddock

Fastest Human" Charges Modern Drinking Has Hurt American Athletics.

NEW YORK, June 6.—(UN)—Charles W. Paddock, most famous track star of his generation, charges in an article in the current Collier's Weekly, released last night, that drinking has affected American athletics to the extent that "strong drink has become a serious problem."

Paddock's article was frankly an attack on prohibition. He declared that it had led to drinking by youths, and that it had not affected track athletics alone, but all branches, from football to tennis.

NOT CONFINED.

"Drinking is not confined to the competitors in any one sport. There are many golf and polo champions who have established records at the nineteenth hole and in the locker room as well as on the fairway and turf. Those sports, though they require strength and a steady eye, do not make very great demands on stamina. "The Davis cup, symbolic of the tennis championship of the world, would be in this country today were it not for prohibition. The last of the great action champions, the fiery California comet, Maurice McLoughlin, came before the war. No great player since his time had had the stamina to go to the net on every serve and to cover court with the persistent speed that he displayed. So that now our wine-drinking friends from France, do do not dissipate their strength, hold the Davis cup. "In swimming we have lost many haurels since prohibition came along. The same is true in football. We have substituted speed, passing and an open game for the 'power plays' of the past, and this has been partially due to the fact that the boys can no longer stand the gaff of 60 full minutes of physical contact.

Paddock said he had found less drinking among athletes in California than elsewhere.

"This does not mean," be qualified. "that the competitors from the Golden West do not drink. From Seattle to San Diego, it is the same story: The moment an event is over, and sometimes even before it takes place, the giggle water flows. The western boys are more inclined toward whisky while in the middle west and east gin predominates. Everywhere there is straight alcohol, mixed and unmixed."

ATTACK ROUTS NICK DUMOVICH

Dobbs' Boys Falter After Five-Run Lead Over Nashville.

By Ralph McGill.

Disaster in the form of a 7-to-5 adverse score smote the Crackers right betwixt the eyes Friday afternoon at Spiller field as they encountered the Rowland Roamers from Nashville in the first game of the great homecoming.

Rowland Roamers from Assavine the first game of the great homecoming.

It was John Anderson, my Jo John, called by some a baseball relic, who brought woe and misery to the Crackers. John Anderson smote a homerun in the eighth inning into the republican grandstand in left field to score two mates ahead of him, running the Volunteer total to 7. The Crackers labored magnificently but they could not raise their total in the two remaining innings.

There was a goodly crowd out to witness the Crackers on their return from the feudal wars wherein they won five of six road games, stretching a winning streak to six in a row. It was ladies' day and there was a constant shrilling at everything from infield outs to plain boots. They were there to cheer a winner and cheer it they would even if they turned out to be losers.

Nick Dumovich was on the rubber as the game started. He stuck there until the eighth, when a base on balls and two singles in succession blew him off.

KNIGHT TAKES HILL.

KNIGHT TAKES HILL.

Jack Knight, who had been warning up for six innings, hurried in and was off to a fine start. He threw two straight strikes. John Anderson, never a very vicious sort of hitter, gathered himself together and belted the next ball to left field. It went sailing over the head of Elton (Samuel) Langford and bounded right into the horrified faces of the colored rooters who were out in generous numbers.

Until the eighth inning. Nick Dumovich had been going along in fine style. The Crackers, hustling and battling with great gusto, attacked Lefty Willis for four hits and three runs in the first inning.

GOOD LEGS AND SKULL.

GOOD LEGS AND SKULL.

Had it not been for the durability of Roy Grimes' skull and legs the two runs might not have scored. Grimes went to third on Lamotte's single and was caught off in a chase. He went galloping up and down between third and home. Lamotte hustled to second and when it seemed that Grimes was a sure out, lammed out for third. Jack Willis hurled the ball back toward third as Grimes turned that way. The ball struck Grimes on the head and he was afe at third.

Lamotte dug out for second and made it there, besting the throw. Grimes started for home again. Marquardt threw in time to get him but the ball again struck Grimes' skull, skidding off to one side and giving him plenty of time to score. His was the third tally.

It is quite a pity that Clarence Rowland's remarks could not be preserved for posterity.

NICK WORKS HARD. Morrison Falls at 9-8

With those three runs to coast on Nick Dumovich bore down. In the first three innings there was but one hit made off his delivery. In the fourth a Vol rally all but caught up with that lead.

With one gone Poole singled. Jerry Standaert struck out but this same pestiferous Anderson singled. Blackle Carter walked, greatly to the disgust of Dumovich, who thought he had struck him out. Umpire Shannon guessed otherwise.

Whereupon Ernie Kreuger slammed a single to center field. All the Vols started running. And all three of them scored when the ball was inggled in the outfield and when Bill Barrett let the ball get between his legs on a play for Carter at the plate.

"RED" SCORES JIMMY.

The Crackers came right back with a tally in their half of the fourth when Jimmy Johnston led off with a single, was sacrificed to second and scored on Red Barron's single to center.

Nick Dumovich, to show the gratitude, pitched magnificent ball in the fifth, sixth and seventh, allowing not a man to reach first until the seventh, when two men walked.

Those two walks were the tip-off that Domovich had cracked. He walked Jay Partridge to start the eighth. Jim Poole got his second single of the game, sending Partridge to third. SIGNAL FOR KNIGHT.

That was the signal for Knight to go in. He did. And up came that innocent-looking Mr. John Anderson, my Jo John.

And he bit that home run. And the big parade started moving in.

Appling Plays Short; Starling To Hurl Today

Johnny Dobbs amounced Friday night that he would shift his line-up for the Nashville game today, placing Luke Appling, former Oglethorpe star, at abortstop, and moving Bobby Lamotte over to third. Hugh Starling, the cap and gown pitcher from Alabama, will try to win his second game from the Vols. He beat them last Monday at Nashville. The game begins at 2:30 o'clock. The Cracker office also announced that Paul Gregory, right-handed pitcher from the Mississippi A. and M., had come to terms and would sign a contract here pext Wednesday. Starling recommended Gregory very highly, saying that he was the fastest college pitcher in the south. Gregory is a big fellow, standing about 6 feet tall and weighing 180 pounds.

the coming Schmeling-Sharkey duel for the heavyweight championship of the universe?

How do the big layers, the cold-cyed, tight-lipped barpns of chance, who wager thousands on the turn of the market, the heart of a thoroughbred, or the fist of a championship fighter, view the ring joust between the Black Uhlan of Germany and the Garrulous Gob of the little old U. S. A.?

The odds have been sliding between to 5 and 7 to 5, Sharkey.

Several big layers have declared "Sharkey will win."

Neither betting odds nor what the big layers say mean a thing.

How often do ring favorites bring home the bacon?

Look over the results of the feature events staged in Madison Square Garden and you will find that less than 50 per cent result in the betting favorite winning.

Do you think they let the public know what they really think, or weeks ahead tell on whom they are betting a fortune?

Their job is to outguess and outpoker the other fellow and they can't make thousands by placing their hands on the table while the betting still is on. Hall, who posted : card of 309.

Hall, who won the crown last year at Chattanooga, saw his hopes for retaining the title slip from his grasp as the leaders rounded the 54th hole at noon. When the 54-hole cards were posted, Miller had carded a 71. while Hall took a 74, giving the former a lead of three strokes. Mears produced the best morning score of the field when he posted a 70, two under par, but his 75 in the afternoon cheated him of a better finish. Hall picked up one stroke on Miller in the afternoon rounds when he fired a 71 to Miller's 72.

ENDICOTT, N. Y., June 7.—No fighter ever picked a prettier section of the country to train in than Max Schmeling has selected for his tion of the country to train in than Max Schmeling has selected for h jousting place in preparation for the Sharkey matter.

And when you meet Schmeling and talk to him you suddenly recall the fact that you have met few heavyweights with his personal charm and his apparent keenness. He is quiet, modest, sincere (as far as one can tell) and at the same time exceptionally dent of winning as Sharkey is.

What, then, about his chance to win? Schmeling is going to well behind in boxing, a two-handed attack and also in experience.

li behind in boxing, a two-handed attack and also in experience. one could step out and make the unqualified statement that Sharkey was joing to use his head and fight his best fight, the odds against the German be 2 to 1. That much, anyway.

But since no one can say that about Sharkey, until he proves it under fire in a tough fight, it can be said that Schmeling is the type who will raise the well-known dickens with the Boston gob if Sharkey does lose his head, as he has done before. And the reason is simply this—the German is smart, cool, quick to size up a situation and once he gets his chance he can hit and hit hard. Stribling hurt Sharkey twice and Sharkey admits it. But Stribling never followed up either chance. Schmeling may not hit Sharkey as solidly as Stribling did, but if he lands you can bank on him to follow up his advantage and make the most of it.

THE GERMAN'S IDEA.

Judging from the type of work he has done in his Endicott resort, Schmeling has undoubtedly been getting ready for a crowding attack. Naturally, he isn't telling any one openly just what he expects to do. Among the various queries I put to him there came just two direct answers. The first was—
"I will enter the ring at 187. That is my best fighting weight. I will be ready to give the very best I have." The other was—"the best man will win. I would rather leave the rest of the answer to what happens in the ring on Thursday night."

There are two impressive details about Schmeling. One is pair of deep set, keen, piercing eyes that show they mean business. The other is a marvelous pair of hands, two of the finest hands that ever swung leather at an opponent's jaw. It is easy emough to see why he can hit with these hands. They are big and bony and they are hooked to a pair of thick, strong, pliable looking wrists.

looking wrists.

Schmeling has fine control of his hands and wrists. His right hand especially has an abnormal amount of leverage. He can chug from an extremely short distance and make it hurt. Sharkey admitted that Stribling hurt him or jarred him more than ce with short punches, only six or eight inches in range. He will find that Schmeling can do even more damage, although Schmeling lacks Stribling's speed and cleverness in landing.

THE DIVIDED CAMPS.

It is more than interesting to hear the opinions of the two camps Endicott—the Sharkey faction and the Schemling faction.

The Sharkey faction will tell you that Schmeling is a sucker, an easy mark for a left hand and that Sharkey has a fine left hand, an accurate left and strong one.

They say that Sharkey's two-handed attack will overwhelm Schmeling's defense in the first two or three rounds and that the heating the ing's defense in the first two or three rounds and that the beating the German will take in the earlier rounds will kill off his aggressiveness and

The Schmeling camp is backing the German's smartness and his aggressiveness and his righthand punch. They will show you that almost every rival who has crowded Sharkey has either beaten him or given him a hard fight, and they don't place any of these in Schmeling's class. They will tell you how good Sharkey has looked in his training before, only to fade out when crowded or given a hard fight. They mention the Dempsey, Heeney and Risko fights as leading examples with the Scott fiaseo as the big things, where both looked bad.

They point to the fact that Scott was not nearly as dangerous as the meling is, yet he killed off Sharkey's cleverness and had him swinging they point to the fact that seoft was not nearly as dangerous as the self-based of the seoft was not nearly as dangerous and had him swinging the a wild man. If Heeney, Risko and Scott could cause Sharkey all this trouble, they can see no reason why the German shouldn't cause him a lot more and many of them are picking Schmeling without an "if"

These arguments are among the main features of the Endi-cott camp. There are times when the debate gets hot and steamy, without ever getting anywhere, which is the way of most

The main point is that Schmeling is in fine condition, that he and confident, and that he is handling himself just as he thinks his situation should be handled. He is no great boxer in any sense of the word, but he is undoubtedly one of the smartest heavyweights the game has ever seen and it will take Sharkey at his best to beat him up.

Jimmy Hamilton made as many mistakes as humanly possible. Any city is a good baseball spot if the right man takes charge and sits up nights THINKING.

THE BETTER 'OLE. What a load of grief the manager of a sandlot baseball team had to tell at the meeting the other night.

The manager of the Maddox Park youngsters had to forfeit a game last week and he explained that the manager of the Northwest Atlanta team, playing on a near-by diamond, passed the word that he had two gallons of ice cream on hand and needed some boys to help him and his team eat it.

So many Maddox Park kids deserted for the feed that their own game could not go on. Indignation was high; plots were hinted; Major Trammel Scott, the grand high whatyermaycallit of the league, had a time straightening it all out without a riot.

First Hazard in Defense of Crown Is Safely Past.

AUTEUIL, France, June 6.—
(NANA)—Once again Helen Wills Moody successfully negotiated the first hazard in her defense of the world champion tennis crown which she so rightfully wears. In doing so she clearly showed that she is still in a class by herself. Apparently she can beat the best of the girls by almost any score she desires.

In her final match with Miss Jacobs the concentration of the two players was somewhat distracted by the attitude of a good portion of the tremendous crowd who did not agree with many decisions against Miss Jacobs and most unfairly took out their displeasure on Mrs. Moody, who was in no way to blame. Mrs. Moody left the court in a storm of cat-calls and whistling and but minor applause after a magnificent display of tennis that fully deserved greater appreciation.

Reserves Winning Battles for Connie Mack as Injuries Strike

ROOKIES SAVE A'S IN PINCH

McNair and Deb Williams Come Through When Stars Are Out.

By Walter Trumbull.

1930, for The Constitution by the merican Newspaper Alliance.)
YORK, June 6.—Reserve

NEW YORK, June 6.—Reserve trength wins many a battle. Conder the case of the Athletics. If found Mack had not had some proming youngsters on the bench, he rould be in a bad way.

When I was in Fort Myers this pring Connie was more enthusiastic bout some of his youngsters than I wer have seen him. His special enusuasm was young Donald Eric Mediar. The Philadelphia club bought lenair from Memphis, which had oponed him to Knoxville, of the South telantic league. MeNair led that tague in batting, with a figure of 191.

20 years of age and broke in with the ball club of his native town. He went to Philadelphia as a shortstop and Jooked like such a good one that Mack told me he would not be afraid to start the season with him.

REAL PLAYER.

"If that McNair isn't a ball player," said Connie, "I never saw one. He even walks like a ball player. He is one of the sweetest looking youngsters I have seen in years."

So when that game ball player, Jimmy Dykes, was hurt, Mack put McNair on third and McNair has been giving a good account of himself.

FORMER TRAVELER.

Mickey Cochrane's choice of the youngsters at the training camp was. Dibrell Williams, the infielder bought from Little Rock. Williams is only 19 years old, and was born in Greenbriar, Ark. Cochrane thought he showed even more promise than McNair, although he admitted he might be a little farther away. Williams apparently wasn't very far away. With Bishop on the bench, the Greenbriai boy has been playing such a whale of a game at second that it may be hard to get him out of there. But these two are not all. When the great and only Al Simmons hurt his leg. Mack stuck Roger Cramer in the outfield. Cramer was a pitcher with the Martinsburg club, but he hit so well they shifted him to third hase. He originally was dug up by Ralph Perkins, the Philadelphia catcher, who, I think, first saw Cramer playing ball arct rod his native New Jersey. After looking him over Mack was so impressed that he determined to keep him and make him into an outfielder. Connie believes that Cramer some day will be a star, but did not expect to have him in the outfield as a regular so soon.

But there you are. Three youngsters are playing on the world's champion baseball club and doing their jobs well.

The Reds didn't go very well against the Giants, but they can thank New York for something. I refer to the acquisition of Pat Crawford. Pat is likely to become quite a first baseman. He can hit and practice will teach him all the things a big league who can write his own stuff. The best player write now

Strib as Air Officer GERMAN HOPES WILL NOT BOX

Pulls for Rush Such as Ex-Gob Used Against Scott.

By George Kirksey.

ENDICOTA, Y., June 6 .- (UN) Max Echmeling has built no air castles about his ability to win the world's heavyweight championship at Yankee stadium next week, and conceded in an interview with the United Press that he might actually lose.

Press that he might actually lose.

"You never know what's going to happen in the ring," said Schmeling in broken, but easily understood English. "Somebody might slip bananas in the ring, and then one of us slip down. It might be me; it might be Sharkey.

"Of course, I'm going to try to win, but I don't know how. I haven't any plans, and what I do will depend entirely on what Sharkey does." IGHT HIS BEST.

Schmeling emphatically stated that he would not go into the ring with the one idea in his head of trying to knock out Sharkey, as many believe.
"I am going to fight my best, and win if I can, but I do not say I can knock out Sharkey. If I get the opportunity to try for a knockout. I shall do that thing, but that will depend upon what happens in the ring and I don't know, you don't kn w, nobody knows what's going to take place there."

there."

While Schmeling admits he might lose, he also explains that this fight may be a lot easier for him than some others he has had.

"It's just another fight to me," said Schmeling. "I am in the best shape of my life and prepared for a hard fight, but Sharkey is human, too. He only cooks water like threst of us. He might fight like a bum and I will have an easy time winning.

CHANGE PLANS.

"If Sharkey boxes," said Max, "then I must have time to make my plans. I may look bad for one, two, three rounds, but I think in the end I will take the fight in my hands and make Sharkey fight like I want him to, not like he wants to."

Although Schmeling has two knockouts against his record, the German says he has never been but or had a bleeding nose in the ring.

"My skin does not cut or bleed," said Max, knocking on wood.
Schmeling was examined by Dr. W. G. Fralick, noted New York surgeon who has operated on many fighters, including Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney, Jack Sharkey, Harry Greb and others, and Dr. L. J. Smith, of the New York state sanitary bureau. others, and Dr. L. J. Smith, of the New York state sanitary bureau.

"I have examined many athletes in training, including Dempsey, Sharkey, Tunney and others," said Dr. Fralick.
"And I have never found a man at a rarer competitive edge than I found Schmeling today. Neither Dr. Smith nor myself ever examined a person at nor myself ever examined a person at a higher state (f physical well-being and efficiency."

Johnny Grosso and Paul Cavalier alternated against the Boston ex-sailor in the first four rounds and King Solomon opposed him in the final session. Sharkey was having one of his best days. He jabbed his sparring mates at will with his left and countered to perfection.

PROHIBITION HIT BY STAR

Centinued from First Sport Page. as to the evils of prohibition, he said he did think living conditions had been changed so that, while drink-ing in public may have been taboo 15 years ago, it was the style now. He thinks that his track teams would have been definitely better were it not for modern student drink-ing.

on the other hand, Richard Foster, treasurer of the Tulane Athletic Council and football player of 1907, thinks Paddock's theories "absurd." He believes student drinking has deinitely decreased since prohibition and athletics have grown consequently better.

"Athletes keep better training now than they did 20 years ago," Foster and. "And most of them can't afford to drink now."

Claude "Monk" Simona, popular Tulane trainer and gym instructor, thinks there is no relation at all between prohibition and athletics. He says American teams grow better every year and more records fall every day.

NOBLES, FROGS DRAW.

ANNISTON. Ais., June 6.—After the same was halted in the third inning because of rain, the Anniston Nobles and the Carrollton Frogs battled on to end the same at the close of the tenth frame in a 1-to-1 draw.

Anniston had excellent changes to break the tie in the last four innings but falled to hit in the pinches. Hockett and Hand for Anniston and Cain for Carrollton pitched brilliant ball throughout. Hockett was relieved in the fourth after he had been hit by a pitched ball in the third inning. Fugua and Sappenfield led Anniston hittin—with two for four each. Reese was Carro..ton's batting star with two for four Series.

Mrs. J. E. Watkin, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union here, said she never had taken much interest in sports but she firmly believed prohibition had made Amer-ica's sports "cleaner" and her ath-letes healthier.

'Crippled' Club Hangs Up Ninth Straight Victory To Near Top.

Chicago's "crippled" Cubs moved into Brooklyn Friday and convinced the Brooklyn Robins that they still are an important factor in the National league pennant race.

The Cubs continued their inspired play of the past fortnight and won their ninth straight game, drubbing the league leaders, 13 to 0.

Charley Root turned in his best pitching performance of the year and held the slugging Robins to two hits, both of which came in the fourth inning. His mates pounded their ancient nemesis, Dazzy Vance, and Clise Dudley and Newson for 16 hits, including home runs by Grimm and Hartnett, and ran the bases in daring fashion.

JUST ONE GAME AWAY.

The victory advanced the Cubs to within one game of the lead, and with three games remaining in the segies the Chicagoans are hopeful of passing the Robins.

Adam Comorosky's home run in the ninth inning gave Pittsburgh a 4-to-3 decision over the Boston Braves and advanced the Pirates to third place, a single point shead of St. Louis and New York.

The New York Giants ran their winning streak to six straight today, defeating the St. Louis Cardinals, 10 to 7. The defeat dropped the Cards from second place to a tie with the Giants for fourth.

Philadelphia blasted the offerings of three Cincinnant pitchers for hits, 11 of them for extra bases, and defeated the Reds, 14 to 5. Denny Southern led the attack with four doubles and a single in five times at bat.

The Philadelphia Athletics increased their lead to a game and a half Friday when they beat the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 4, while the second place Washington Senators were idle because of rain at Detroit.

George Ernshaw proved the hero of the game when he went into the pitching box in the last half of the ninth with two out and the tying and winning runs on base, and fanned Heinle Manush to give the Athletics their eleventh victory in 12 games.

Cleveland's Indians took a firmer grip on third place when they pounded Danny MacFayden for 10 hits to beat the Boston Red Sox, 9 to 4. A five-run rally after two men were out in the eighth inning gave Cleveland the victory.

POLO QUARTETS McPherson Battles Fort

Oglethorpe at

Fort McPherson and the sixth cavalry from Fort Oglethorpe will play for the southern circuit polo consolation championship at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at Fort McPherson. The championship game of the circuit will be played at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Fort McPherson between Fort Bragg and Fort Ben. ing.

Beming.

Fort McPherson lost a hard fought game to Fort Bragg Wednesday afternoon in the final two chukkers and the sixth cavalry team went down before the Benning officers Thursday afternoon in a game packed full of thrills and spectacular moments.

Today's game should be even more interesting than the two first round affairs. Fort McPherson is a much improved polo team and one that will give a good account of itself today. In Captain Wing and Major Franke, Fort McPherson has two excellent defensive players and two who can drive "ccurately.

Licutenant Biddle and Lieutenane.

Licutenant Biddle and Licutenant Spettel played spectacular polo Wednesday, the work of Spettel being particularly good. He played opposite Captain Peter Rodes and prevented the Fort Bragg star from running away with the game.

Against Fort McPherson the sixth cavalry team will send Captain Cheeves, Major Allen, Licutenant Moores and Licutenant Ireland, Major Allen is the outstanding player with a three-goal handicap. He is an excellent horse rider and his pass work in recent games has been the feature. Captain Cheeves, a former University of Georgia star athlete, is another of the Oglethorpe stars. He plays No. 1 position, and is one of the most accurate drivers on the team.

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 6 .- (A)

"My hat's in the ring; my heart's in the race," the blind senatorial veteran declared in his platform declaration, which stressed a demand for less taxes, more trade, no trusts," and asserts his belief that though the saloon "is dead as human slavery" he has a boy and shares "the anxiety which every father and mother must feel over existing conditions and tendencies."

Mr. Gore became a United States senator in 1907, at the time Okla

"I am not sure, of course, that the board will accomplish what it hopes," he added, "This is an open question and the board has proceeded very cautiously and very wisely so. However, whatever benefits that will accrue to cotton will be through the organization of a stabilization corporation."

Farm board members said today the procedure of the stabilization corporation would not be determined until the cotton advisory committee makes recommendations to the board on the scope of operations.

It was emphasized that the corporation was being established upon recommendation of the advisory committee, which after a prolonged study reported there was an emergency in the cotton market.

It was the opinion of the committee this work of stabilization should be performed by an agency other than the American Cotton Co-operation.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—(P)— The republican national committee Government Loses 'Setup' Test Case At Mountain Camp

SAN FRANCISCO, June 6.—(P)—
The government has lost its first test case in California in a drive against restaurants and cafe owners who serve "setups" of ice and ginger ale to guests with the knowledge that they are to be used in mixing intoxicating drinks.

Federal Judge Kerrigan yesterday directed a verdict for Edward Spohn, manager of the Silver Slipper Cafe, after pointing out there was a "fatal variance" between the wording of the complaint on, which his place was raided and the evidence presented by prohibition agents.

Defense attorneys elicited the admission from a federal under-coveragent that he had visited the cafe with another man and two women and SAN FRANCISCO, June 6 .- (AP)- with another man and two women and had drunk liquor purchased elsewhere.

When the government failed to prove that Spohn kept "certain liquors for sale" as was charged in the complaint, the directed verdict was made by Judge Kerrigan.

The judge, however, instructed the prosecution that it could again try Spohn on a charge of maintaining a nuisance in that he permitted patrons to bring liquor into the cafe and furnished them with ice, gingerale and other "mixers."

He pointed out the United States supreme court had already established the guilt of a person so charged.

The action of the court followed a drastic denunciation of the Watch and Ward Society by District Attorney Robert T. Bushnell, who charged that the society had "procured" the sale of the book. The case came up for sentence yesterday and a $500 fine was allowed to stand.

The book was "Lady Chatterly's Lover." Delacey was found guilty before Judge Frederick W. Foadick last December and the supreme court recently overruled an appeal.

The former governor's indorsement of his successor was given during discussion of plans to enlarge the facilities at Warm Springs and its work in treatment of infantile paralysis victims.

"I was one of those who against his better judgment persuaded Mr. Roosevelt to be governor." said Mr. Smith. "I know what the position is. There is no rest in it. It is a day and night job. Unquestionably he was asked to do more than might have been expected from him.

"It is a satisfaction for me now to come here to say that the citizens should heartily support this Warm Springs foundation on its own merits and—also in tribute to the governor who laid aside his personal and business interests to administer the state in the remarkable way that he has cared for it during his first term. "I'm willing to help the farm board in every possible way." he said. Senator McKellar, of Tennessee. said he hoped the corporation would do some good "but judging from the past performances of the board in endeavoring to stabilize wheat prices I have my doubts."

"I'm just hoping for the best," he added. "The price of cotton ought to be stabilized."
